The American International School of Guangzhou (AISG) has been an educational leader in southern China and Asia for 35 years, and each year we have even more to celebrate. AISG began in 1981 as the American School of Guangzhou. At that time, the school served the children of the American Consulate and was located in the Dong Fang Hotel. Eventually students from other nations were enrolled. As more space was needed, the school moved to the Garden Hotel in 1985. In 1994 AISG moved into a purpose-built school building in the Greenery, a housing estate. In 2002 AISG moved to a new campus on ErSha Island. In 2007, as enrollment continued to grow, the new Science Park campus opened for the Middle and High School. The Elementary School continues to be located on the ErSha Island Campus.

AISG is an independent coeducational day school offering a full educational program from Preschool to grade 12, divided between Preschool, Elementary School (Kindergarten to Grade 5), Middle School (Grades 6 to 8) and High School (Grades 9 to 12). AISG is fully accredited by WASC and offers International Baccalaureate Primary Years and Diploma Programmes (PYP and DP, respectively).

The school currently has 102 faculty members. The 180-day academic year comprises two semesters, from mid-August to early June. As of September 2016, AISG’s enrollment was 1,007, and the Elementary School enrolls 488 students, Preschool 3 through Grade 5. The current student body represents approximately forty nationalities. Classes range in size from 15 to 24 students in the Elementary School and from 12 to 24 students in the Middle and High Schools. Mandarin as a Second Language is offered at all grade levels, and French and Spanish language options begin in Grade 6.

AISG offers the opportunity for qualified teachers and administrators to work in a supportive, professional, and international setting while experiencing the excitement of living in urban Asia in one of the world's fastest developing areas.
LOCATION Guangzhou, historically known as Canton, is a modern, dynamic Asian city, capturing the heart of Cantonese culture. While all modern amenities exist within the city, it also affords opportunities to explore fascinating backstreets and discover the “real Canton”. It is the third largest city in China and the largest in South China (population approximately 12 million). It is located in Guangdong Province and is the heart of the political, economic, sci-tech, and educational and cultural scene in the province. Hong Kong is just over the border, accessible by a two-hour train trip. Guangzhou is a great travel hub for exploring South-East Asia. Guangzhou's Baiyun International Airport has direct flights to Europe, North America, as well as to cities throughout Asia.
