ISS Administrative Search Announcement

Director 2018

Riffa Views International School
Manama, Kingdom of Bahrain

Overview of School

Riffa Views International School (RVIS) is an International Schools Services (ISS) managed, private, not-for-profit, college preparatory day school. The campus, completed in 2008, is beautiful and has been built to the highest architectural standards. The school is situated on a 15-acre campus in Riffa Views Signature Estates – a 1,000-unit gated golf community containing a Colin Montgomerie designed PGA level golf course. The school opened in September 2008 in grades Pre-Kindergarten through Grade Five and held its first graduation in June 2016. The medium of instruction is English with all students taking Arabic as part of their academic program. The school offers an American curriculum and the International Baccalaureate diploma or American diploma upon graduation. RVIS is accredited by the Council of International Schools and Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools and has been recognized by the National Authority of Qualifications and Quality Assurance for Education and Training as an outstanding school. Based on current research on single gender education in the United States, and the cultural traditions of the host country, classes in the secondary program are single gender. However, secondary school students operate in a co-ed environment when they are not in the classroom (before school, lunchtime, after school, field trips, etc.).

The Community

Bahrain is a modern, moderate country with a tradition of multicultural tolerance and acceptance. Bahrainis are widely regarded as the most friendly and accepting people in the Gulf region. The population of Bahrain is currently over one million people of which 50% are expatriate. The business language of Bahrain is English and is spoken widely throughout the country. Living in Bahrain is very comfortable with a wide range of international quality restaurants to choose from as well as outstanding shopping opportunities. Cinemas and American satellite television programs are widely available as is high speed internet access. Consumer goods from around the world are plentiful. From November to April the climate in Bahrain is pleasantly warm and sunny with cool evenings. The school is located in a gated golf community called Riffa Views Signatures Estates in the Riffa municipality. The estates are a 20-minute drive from the capital of Manama. Riffa Views Signatures Estates contains four restaurants, a country club and golf club all within a five-minute drive from faculty housing.

Mission Statement

Riffa Views International School is a non-profit, college preparatory school committed to implementing the best educational practices from around the world, while being sensitive to local cultural values. We strive to be a community of learners engaged in becoming intellectually adept, technologically proficient, and ethically guided contributors to a global society.

Mission & Values

The mission of RVIS is to bring to Bahrain a school that reflects the highest standard of international education that prepares students academically for positions of leadership while inculcating multicultural understanding and a sense of service. We seek to develop well rounded students with the social competencies necessary to be successful collaborators in an interdependent global community.

Philosophy

We Believe:

- That a cooperative partnership between all stakeholders: students, teachers, parents, administration, and community, strengthens education.
- That qualified faculty members who are infused with enthusiasm, teamwork, camaraderie, a sense of purpose and school pride, are essential to create and maintain a positive school climate conducive to learning.
- That educators and the school institution must continuously evolve and adapt in response to an ever-changing world and the advancement of new technologies and practices in the field of education.
- That a safe and supportive school environment which promotes kindness, compassion and mutual respect is conducive to optimal learning and emotional growth.
- That schools increase their effectiveness when the needs of learners are given primacy in all educational decisions.
- That a relevant, engaging curriculum encourages active participation and promotes lifelong learning.
- That differentiated instruction founded on research based best practices, supports, and encourages the academic, emotional, aesthetic, and physical development of all students. That key components of a quality education are the universal character traits of honesty, integrity, compassion, responsibility, and respect.
- That schools foster global citizenship in students by promoting respect for diversity, demonstrating religious and cultural acceptance, teaching the local culture and language, and celebrating the world's national and ethnic differences.
- That students' needs are best met in a technologically rich environment staffed by teachers adept at the integration of technology in the learning process.
- That schools have a responsibility to instill environmental awareness and to provide opportunities and encouragement for students to become actively involved in local and global stewardship.
- That schools have a responsibility to engage students in ongoing community service in order to promote citizenship and empathy for others, and to develop positive self-esteem.

The School
