I teach Grade 3 and we kicked off our online learning journey by having discussions about what we wanted this to look like. As the weeks go on, we have adapted and improved immensely. My students frequently comment how they enjoy having live sessions and morning meeting to start their days. I often ask them for ideas and input which gives them voice and ownership in the process.

From Alejandra Cruz milano to All panelists: (03:26 pm)

i recommend to everyone the book by Angela Watson " Fewer Things Better"

From Brent Brayko to All panelists and attendees: (03:26 pm)

I think that one of the big issues we are going to be facing soon is moving to a blended learning model with some kids on campus and others not because of cautious parents and out of country etc.

From Christa Kempf to All panelists: (03:26 pm)

Thank you!

From SHALINI FERNANDEZ to All panelists: (03:26 pm)

yes, we have a homework tracker to avoid overloading our students

From Annie Guerrero to All panelists: (03:26 pm)

How to address parents who are feeling that their children are not getting enough due to the approach of Asynchronous and Synchronous learning

From Ali Power to All panelists and attendees: (03:26 pm)

That is going to be tricky.

From Paola San Martini to All panelists and attendees: (03:26 pm) great plan to work on just a few subjects a day....but in secondary our school is requiring we run the regular school day as per our original timetable. we are all frazzled

From Pushpa Janarthanan to All panelists: (03:27 pm)

for math , we use the matific site for gaming learning of concepts

From Annie Guerrero to All panelists: (03:27 pm)

Parents felt that live sessions are the best and that is it. Parents felt that their children aren't learning on the mixture of Asynch and Synch

From marie Diel to All panelists and attendees: (03:28 pm)

Same here we are a secondary school and the students are expected to work and submitting work as usual. They are spending a lot of time on the computer

From Ali Power to All panelists and attendees: (03:28 pm)

Consistency is key.

From Dana Watts to All panelists and attendees: (03:28 pm)

7 strategies to increase engagement: <https://catlintucker.com/2020/05/7-strategies-to-engage-students-in-synchronous-online-discussions/>

From Lin Robbins-Doyle to All panelists: (03:28 pm)

active and authentic experiences where there is some choice is a mantra of ours in our HS to keep the engagement.

From Deanna Mydland to All panelists: (03:29 pm)

Perfect, John!

From Katarina Sablić to All panelists and attendees: (03:29 pm)

Same in Croatia. Only primary goes in blended learning model. But most of parents refused to 'send' their kids to school.

From Dana Watts to All panelists and attendees: (03:30 pm)

Our counselors are amazing resources for us all

From CATHERINE TURNER to All panelists and attendees: (03:30 pm)

Yes!!! taking advantage of those teachers who cannot teach their materials on line - we have paired them up with the key/core teacher and that way there are a team checking in on the students

From Brent Brayko to All panelists and attendees: (03:30 pm)

Building in a slower or Catch up Wednesdays (middle of week) has saved us and our kids in this semester online. That day too breathe is important and I wish we had started from the beginning

From Mitch Madigan to All panelists: (03:30 pm)

Our Elementary counselor has online recess with different grade. Kids zoom in and get to do silly activities.

From Deanna Mydland to All panelists: (03:31 pm)

Cannot overstate the importance of relationships!

From Heather Palma to All panelists and attendees: (03:31 pm)

We were told quiz with every lesson we give. We were told that there must be homework all the time. We have to give virtual classes all the time and must use the entire time (45 mins). One of our Elem. English teachers did a 15 minute lesson then told the kids to do their work and come back in 15 minutes. She was harshly critiqued about doing that saying it wasn't effective teaching

From CATHERINE TURNER to All panelists and attendees: (03:31 pm)

cored down to essential outcomes that one will need to scaffold into next year's class

From Heather Palma to All panelists and attendees: (03:31 pm)

We were told that what they see in rreal life class, they need to see in the VC

From Erin Foxmann to All panelists and attendees: (03:31 pm)

I agree. We are finding that teachers are learning/re-learning how to give instructions. We emphasize brevity, visuals, and then modeling in live instruction.

From Alejandra Cruz milano to All panelists: (03:32 pm)

consistency, clarity, teams and relationships and flexibility so true 🙏

From Amanda Anderson to All panelists and attendees: (03:32 pm)

*best

you dont get likes if you are not clear
