From Tim Bray to All panelists and attendees: (08:13 AM)

- Exactly, Brent. Thank you for those comments.

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists: (08:13 AM)

- Amen, Brent!

From Marsha Martin to All panelists: (08:13 AM)

- Good evening. Wanita from AISPP in Cambodia.

From Sylvain Normandeau to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Hello, I am Sylvain from the International Community School of Abidjan

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:14 AM)

- We need to start assessing knowledge that is genuine and can't be googled.

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- If you design assessments that have an infinite number of current answers... policing for honesty is not an issue.

From Heather Onderick to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Hello from Asociación Escuelas Lincoln in Buenos Aires

From Jasmine Dolani to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Would you share the recording of this webinar as well?

From Todd Hollett to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Amen, Brent and Dana!!

From Dawn McMaster to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Excellent advice - so what do those authentic assessments look like. Teachers need some concrete ideas so they can build from your experience.

From Nathan Perry to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Agree! Authentic, life-like assessment are harder to fabricate.

From Mary Louise Bowyer to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Hello, everyone. :) Mary Louise Bowyer from Beijing International Bilingual Academy.

From Jacob LaPlante to All panelists and attendees: (08:14 AM)

- Originality reports in Google classroom can be helpful. If the assessment is written.

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:14 AM)

- YES Brent!

From Fizza Kachwala to All panelists and attendees: (08:14 AM)

- I think Academic honesty is an inherent part of learning and there is only so much that teachers/ schools can do ..one hopes this is part of the learning journey!

From David DePolo to All panelists: (08:14 AM)

- Ungoogleable.

From Mariama Bah to All panelists: (08:15 AM)

- Hello from International Community School of Abidjan. Great to be here!

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists: (08:15 AM)

- Consider self-evaluations based on evidence of learning— here's one:
<https://portable-teacher.blogspot.com/2015/06/what-students-say-at-years-end.htm>

From Tara Waudby to All panelists: (08:15 AM)

- Thank you Brent. Yes! Hopefully, this propels us very far forward in our assessment practices

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists: (08:15 AM)

- And here is another : <https://teachremote.mit.edu/assigning-assessing>

From michelle cooper to All panelists and attendees: (08:15 AM)

- I think we have more of an issue with parents educational honesty and their desire for their children to be 'top of the class!' 🙄

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists: (08:15 AM)

- @Fizza so true.

From Jennifer Artan to All panelists: (08:16 AM)

- We've found "academic honesty" concepts vary across cultures - "borrowing" ideas isn't stigmatized elsewhere, but seen as a kind of intellectual theft here

From Amy Foley to All panelists: (08:16 AM)

- We need to design assessments that ENCOURAGE students to use resources around them - internet, peers, experts. This is real life learning!

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:16 AM)

- We find that when we continue to remind the children and their families about the ethos and values of our schools, we see instances of cheating plummet.

From Jackie Booth to All panelists: (08:16 AM)

- Love this - we do this in elementary all the time... no tests/exams the formative tells us what we still need to teach before the summative real life projects.

From Ali Power to All panelists and attendees: (08:16 AM)

- And parents doing the work with the children, instead of letting them do it themselves!

From David Gocentas to All panelists: (08:17 AM)

- Let's not grade...just give feedback?

From Eric Walker to All panelists and attendees: (08:17 AM)

- "We need to start assessing knowledge that is genuine and can't be googled." A noble thought, but with each year the content that can be Googled expands exponentially.

From Dawn McMaster to All panelists: (08:17 AM)

- We are an IB school, and their new missive on academic integrity has raised the integrity issue to the fore for IB schools this year. Love to hear the advice to keep this in perspective.

From Jacqueline Arce to All panelists: (08:17 AM)

- How can we allow teachers to stop worrying about assessment/focus more on the learning now since they still need to write reports?

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:17 AM)

- If you design assessments that have an infinite number of current answers... policing for honesty is not an issue.

From Megan Kuemmerlin to All panelists and attendees: (08:17 AM)

- There is no such thing as cheating in continuous learning. Check out Five Moore Minutes: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=LyqFcmUxHAW&feature=youtu.be>

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:17 AM)

- Consider self-evaluations based on evidence of learning— here’s one:
<https://portable-teacher.blogspot.com/2015/06/what-students-say-at-years-end.html> And here is another : <https://teachremote.mit.edu/assigning-assessing>

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:17 AM)

- And the challenges are more pronounced with our youngest learners who need the most assistance from their parents. Can this be addressed?

From Blair Cochran to All panelists and attendees: (08:17 AM)

- any good and straightforward resources for self-assessment and peer assessment? (Especially upper-elementary friendly)

From Ann Jurewicz to All panelists: (08:18 AM)

- World is different ES/MS from HS. Kids get smarter at game. IB did not do “online assessments” because we cannot secure them.

From Kristel Birao to All panelists: (08:18 AM)

- How are we going to differentiate presentation of concept or assessment?

From Tim Bray to All panelists and attendees: (08:18 AM)

- Oral assessment is something to look.

From Kerry Legg to All panelists: (08:18 AM)

- In Primary, the difficulty is that we want parents to support students, but it is difficult to know if work is their own or supported - even if we ask for no support for a piece of work

From Jessica Hale to All panelists: (08:18 AM)

- Hi Megan! Couldn’t agree more

From Ann Jurewicz to All panelists: (08:18 AM)

- @Tim - agree that oral assessment (and doing so in groups) is manageable

From Kerry Legg to All panelists and attendees: (08:18 AM)

- In Primary, the difficulty is that we want parents to support students, but it is difficult to know if work is their own or supported - even if we ask for no support for a piece of work

From Zenan Sandouka to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- Open book assessment is another option

From abbas Sheikh Hassan to All panelists: (08:19 AM)

- Is it possible to have an authentic exam

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:19 AM)

- Hi Alejandra here EC teachers joining in from Canada a little late!

From fatima kamali to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- assess the experience the knowledge not the content

From Ali Power to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- I agree, although with good knowledge of the children, you can often see when they have had help.

From ayesha kardame to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- I agree open book assessment is a good idea

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- @Tim Bray Yes, and there are some great tools out there we could use especially w/ MS and HS: flip grid, pallet, slides, teleconferencing, etc.

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- Ideas for creative methods for online assessment: We need to start assessing knowledge that is genuine and can't be googled.

From Kerry Legg to All panelists and attendees: (08:19 AM)

- Good resource for collaboration is Sutori.com. Free just now to educators

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:20 AM)

- Formative assessment and feedback have never been more important.

From Lea Mai to All panelists and attendees: (08:20 AM)

- We are doing weekly 1:1 Feedback and goal setting sessions online 1:1

From Kasia Travis to All panelists and attendees: (08:20 AM)

- Yes! Being able to give more focused, one-on-one feedback to my students have been the highlight of the online teaching for me :)

From Jessica Hale to All panelists: (08:20 AM)

- The College Board has encouraged open book exams for AP this year HUGE step!

From Trish Felszegi to All panelists and attendees: (08:20 AM)

- What is the best way to change final reporting to best reflect these new authentic assessments during this crisis learning?

From Jeanette Coffren to All panelists: (08:21 AM)

- A few of our teachers have commented they are able to give more and more specific feedback to students in this asynchronous environment than FtF

From Matthew Sheets to All panelists and attendees: (08:21 AM)

- For IBDP schools the issue is we must give grade 11s non authentic assessments so students are ready for their exams in May 2021.

From Jacqueline Arce to All panelists: (08:21 AM)

- What is the best way to change final reporting to best reflect these new authentic assessments during this crisis learning?— my question too!

From Frances Lond-Caulk to All panelists: (08:21 AM)

- This week we will have our conferences on Zoom. They were supposed to be Student-led, but are now 3-Way, we feel this is more appropriate now, when parents have seen so much of the learning as it takes place at home, we want to focus now on reflection.

From Jennifer Artan to All panelists: (08:21 AM)

- I've used Flipgrid to give feedback on oral presentations - the students loved this and seemed to view the videos many times; they preferred that over the written feedback (however, time consuming to produce ALL of the time!)

From Joseph Stanzone to All panelists: (08:22 AM)

- Who was the Edutopia writer

From Jasmine Dolani to All panelists: (08:22 AM)

- peergrade is very good tool for peer to peer feedback

From Andrea Aroche to All panelists: (08:23 AM)

- Can you guys share all this links and resources via email

From Ben Coleman to All panelists and attendees: (08:23 AM)

- What apps/websites are you referring to for kids to make podcasts?

From Antoine Delaitre to All panelists and attendees: (08:23 AM)

- The main difficulty is no so much to find authentic assessments, but for teachers who have been relying heavily on tests/quizzes (in line with some IB subjects) to make that shift and rethink completely their assessment practice in just a couple of weeks. That's creating huge anxiety and tension for many of them.

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:23 AM)

- All links will be emailed after the call

From Sophia Grammenos to All panelists: (08:23 AM)

- Self reflection - yes! Great great point and very helpful\

From Mónica Callenbach to All panelists: (08:23 AM)

- Hard to hear Kristine

From Andrea Aroche to All panelists: (08:23 AM)

- Thanks @Dana

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:23 AM)

- We are working on her connection

From Bryn Gabriel to All panelists and attendees: (08:23 AM)

- How are students who just disconnect virtually and do not respond to lessons or cannot connect due to lack of internet? What do we do with them?

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:24 AM)

- Google Talk and Comment allows you to add oral feedback very easily, particularly in a Google environment. It is an easy add-on to set up.

From David Trajtenberg to All panelists and attendees: (08:24 AM)

- How do our commitments to institutions like the IBO and the College Board compete with all of the sound suggestions and recommendations made by the panelists?

From Christianna Dakin to All panelists: (08:24 AM)

- I would agree with your Antoine- we need to figure out how to help our teachers make that mind shift

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:24 AM)

- Here's a link to Dylan Wiliam
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sYdVe5O7KBE&feature=youtu.be>

From Shaini Sudheer to All panelists: (08:24 AM)

- Can you please list some of the best online assessments techniques.

From Ben Sheridan to All panelists: (08:24 AM)

- Thanks @Dana!

From David Lovelin to All panelists and attendees: (08:25 AM)

- HKIS Visual Arts Andy Design Department are using a virtual Exhibition gallery to post their work sand it's amazing www.kunstmatrix.com

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:25 AM)

- Here are some strategies for online learning from GOA:
<https://globalonlineacademy.org/insights/articles/15-strategies-for-online-learning-when-school-is-closed%20>

From Jen Tickle to All panelists: (08:25 AM)

- @antoine look at IB DP internal assessment tasks for ideas on IBDP assessments that are authentic and can be managed in an online environment

From Julie Reakes to All panelists and attendees: (08:25 AM)

- Here is a webinar I did on formative assessment which includes methods to use during distance learning.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BH3NvFAYgDk&feature=youtu.be>

From Dawn McMaster to All panelists: (08:25 AM)

- Can you please share that slide again.

From Tracey Greenspan to All panelists: (08:26 AM)

- I would love suggestions as how to give feedback for daily tasks in a manageable way.

From Ann Jurewicz to All panelists: (08:26 AM)

- High stakes testing does not align to ideas that are great for younger students in developmental assessment vs. performance assessment

From Paul Ducharme to All panelists: (08:26 AM)

- Curious about a parent video to show them that explains their responsibilities and accountability during this online learning time?

From Rommel Pelayo to All panelists: (08:26 AM)

- I hope we can get that slide presented by Kirsten

From Azhar Kanso to All panelists: (08:26 AM)

- Hi, all this Azhar from Vision International school from Qatar

From ISS Communications to All panelists and attendees: (08:26 AM)

- We'll share all the resources post call

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:27 AM)

- are there any examples of EC/EY assessments?

From Aiesha Rehana to All panelists and attendees: (08:27 AM)

- thanks

From Siham Yacoub to All panelists: (08:27 AM)

- great .thank you

From Tim Bray to All panelists and attendees: (08:27 AM)

- Ken, thank you for your wisdom!

From Azhar Kanso to All panelists: (08:27 AM)

- Thanks !

From Marcus Tanner to All panelists: (08:27 AM)

- <https://www.artsteps.com> is another way for students to curate collections of work samples. From Heather Saur to All panelists and attendees: (08:27 AM)
- Grace before Grades! Love it!

From Fizza Kachwala to All panelists and attendees: (08:28 AM)

- Ken O'Connor thank you for saying that out loud!!! No grades for our middle schoolers this year!!

From Jennie Jermyn to All panelists and attendees: (08:28 AM)

- Just wondering about reports and assessment in Early Years.

From Teresa Hjellming to All panelists and attendees: (08:28 AM)

- One of the articles on grace before grades: <https://shakeuplearning.com/blog/grace-is-greater-than-grades/>

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:28 AM)

- Yes Ken!

From Tara Barton to All panelists: (08:28 AM)

- Grades should be abolished- such an archaic practice!

From Kirsten Durward to Me: (Privately) (08:28 AM)

From Siham Yacoub to All panelists and attendees: (08:28 AM)

- Great .Thank you ..I love it

From Nilanjana Chatterjee to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- What about IBDP 11th graders?

From Kerry Legg to All panelists and attendees: (08:29 AM)

- Absolutely agree.

From Juan Carlos Cairos to All panelists and attendees: (08:29 AM)

- We use Emerging, Developing, Proficient, Extending

From Aysha Alghoul to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- Great , Thanks

From jennie jermyn to All panelists and attendees: (08:29 AM)

- Absolutely agree!!

From Kirsten Durward to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- share request is here

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:29 AM)

- The challenge with going out to our community and saying we don't have enough evidence is that it contradicts the message we are delivering about the quality of our distance learning program.

From Zenan Sandouka to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- ok , thankyou

From Adegboyega Dominic Atolagbe to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- Grace before Grades? what does that mean please?

From Frances Lond-Caulk to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- I agree about not giving grades, but I think to say we don't have enough information is hard, when we are trying to help fee paying parents see that these eLearning days 'count' as school day. This is a real conundrum sadly.

From Anne Valera to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- I agree with Ken, "Grace before grades" 🙌🙌

From Tara Barton to All panelists: (08:29 AM)

- We should be moving towards single point rubrics for students to demonstrate proficiency.

From David Lovelin to All panelists and attendees: (08:29 AM)

- Remember....Kids and parents did not sign up for online schooling and it is challenging! Grace and understanding is critical

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:29 AM)

- We will share all resources from the chat after the webinar and we will answer any questions in the Q & A as well. Links will be sent out so don't worry if we don't get to your Qs now.

From David Trajtenberg to All panelists and attendees: (08:30 AM)

- Will there be an opportunity for questions?

From Angela Murphy to All panelists and attendees: (08:30 AM)

- Thanks Laura, Brent, Ken and Kirsten. Great ideas so far, if anyone is aware of further webinars in education, would appreciate

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:30 AM)

- I agree with the scale of reporting but in EC\EY there are many skills you have to observed and developing day to day.

From Ronald Lalonde to All panelists: (08:30 AM)

- I am interested in coordinating with other schools who may be recognizing that our current grade 11 students will need advocates for the validity of their learning during this time. How might higher ed and universities be looking at these candidates next year and who will be advocating on their behalf. Please reach out if this speaks to you.

From Adegboyega Dominic Atolagbe to All panelists: (08:30 AM)

- Thank you

From Kerry Legg to All panelists and attendees: (08:30 AM)

- David there is a Q & A tab at the bottom of the screen

From Zenan Sandouka to All panelists and attendees: (08:30 AM)

- True

From Vibhika Gupta to All panelists: (08:30 AM)

- Totally

From Andrew Torris to All panelists: (08:31 AM)

- This p/f approach (distinction or not) will take courage to face difficult questions and demands from our communities.

From Tara Barton to All panelists: (08:31 AM)

- Agreed! Equity and inclusion is important for all students.

From Nathan Perry to All panelists: (08:31 AM)

- Reflection is a great way to have another mode of feedback.

From Angela Murphy to All panelists and attendees: (08:31 AM)

- Thanks Laura, Brent, Ken and Kirsten. Great ideas so far, if anyone is aware of further webinars in education, would appreciate it if you could let us know. Many thanks.

From Deanna Mydland to All panelists: (08:32 AM)

- I appreciate Brent acknowledging that there are low tech to high tech situations. Our rural/reservation areas are not easily doing on line distance learning.

From David Trajtenberg to All panelists and attendees: (08:32 AM)

- My Q&A tab says that I am logged in to another device and won't allow me to enter anything.

From Jennifer Artan to All panelists and attendees: (08:32 AM)

- Hi everyone - just realized all my texts weren't going to the right place. I'm a Lead Tech Integration Support for ESL instructors. I've created a padlet of educational tech resources that I'm willing to share! <https://padlet.com/tv46819/ESLeduttechtools2019>

From Anita Paul to All panelists and attendees: (08:32 AM)

- audio is really bad

From Me to All panelists and attendees: (08:32 AM)

- Students are not engaging in online learning, they are engaging in emergency remote learning and every family situation is different. Some students and teachers may thrive and others will struggle.

From Anita Paul to All panelists and attendees: (08:33 AM)

- I can hear echoes

From Teresa Hjellming to All panelists and attendees: (08:33 AM)

- When Kirsten is talking, will it help if the other panelists turn off their video as well?

From Jasmine Dolani to All panelists and attendees: (08:33 AM)

- I agree with Kirsten on qualitative timely feedback

From Lea Mai to All panelists and attendees: (08:34 AM)

- Kirsten so true, Jo Boaler's work at Stanford also says that the second you give a grade the feedback is lost/ignored and students identify themselves as Math person or not a Math person and so it affects their future learning as well

From Zenan Sandouka to All panelists and attendees: (08:34 AM)

- Thanks Dana

From Antoine Delaitre to All panelists and attendees: (08:34 AM)

- Using P/F in the US College App and IB context is problematic, particularly in 11th grade: that will put enormous pressure on students and teachers in the fall to come up with predicted grades for early college application in October, based on P/F data from June

From Paul Ducharme to All panelists and attendees: (08:34 AM)

- Thanks for the last link Dana

From Jeremy Majeski to All panelists: (08:35 AM)

- Although I completely agree with all of the information shared on grades vs. Feedback - I don't think that our community is ready for a quick shift during this stressful time. Parents want to know if their kids are meeting/exceeding or below right now. They are incredibly worried during this time their kids. I appreciate what Brent shared about knowing our community.

- A recording of the session and links to all resources that are being shared, in addition to answers to questions in the Q & A will be posted after the webinar

From Lisa Gregoire to All panelists: (08:38 AM)

- Thank you!

From Joseph Stanzone to All panelists and attendees: (08:38 AM)

- Dana - Thanks for the resources.

From Frances Lond-Caulk to All panelists: (08:38 AM)

- Love that simple idea of oral feedback rather than written. Some teachers at my school have done that. So much better for EAL children.

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:38 AM)

- thanks

From Zenan Sandouka to All panelists and attendees: (08:38 AM)

- Thanks Layne

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:38 AM)

- great Dana thanks

From Tara Barton to All panelists: (08:39 AM)

- Voice Thread is also another great tool to develop speaking and listening. Students can give each other feedback

From Brenda Hernandez to All panelists: (08:39 AM)

- can you repeat the name of the tool from Microsoft please?

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:39 AM)

- Your welcome, Zenan.

From Natasha Boukaram to All panelists and attendees: (08:39 AM)

- education.microsoft.com has useful free training on their tools but some interesting pedagogical trainings that are easily transferable to other platforms

From Jennifer Artan to All panelists and attendees: (08:39 AM)

- Totally agree - our instructors had not had a lot of training in online delivery and they are inundated right now, stressing out

From Brenda Hernandez to All panelists: (08:39 AM)

- thanks!

From Marina Barker to All panelists: (08:39 AM)

- Thanks Dana for sharing the link with us.

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:39 AM)

- Yes, familiar, predictable, maintain some routines to avoid overwhelm — important conversation.

From patuta singh to All panelists: (08:40 AM)

- How much can we depend on the assessment by the parents?(as the kids are in the house)

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:40 AM)

- It is better to have a few good tools, then several that you are using to try to replicate your in class experience online.

From Lin Robbins-Doyle to All panelists and attendees: (08:40 AM)

- I really appreciate all of the resources the Attendees are providing.

From Nelly Moussa to All panelists: (08:40 AM)

- How Can Specialists, who teach around 200 to 300 students, keep up with giving students continuous feedback? I like the Wednesday idea! Together we can. Great opportunity to connect with fellow educators. Dana i think this is crucial "Students are not engaging in online learning, they are engaging in emergency remote learning and every family situation is different. Some students and teachers may thrive and others will struggle." I feel the key is communication just asking because some schools/admin are really focusing on the assessment and content and not considering other aspects thanks for saying this! Thank you Dana and everyone for your wisdom! Well done, Dana, organizing this! Good to "see" you! peardeck is a tool you can embed into PPT or google helps a lot to increase interactivity You're doing great, Dana! A lot of teachers compare themselves to the "Super Tech" teachers out there and are hard on themselves - I tell them not to compare, and the Super Tech Teachers have made a LOT of mistakes, a lot of trial and error, before getting to where they are no Great idea Laura! What if we pair up groups of schools that are interested in doing this so we can continue conversation/support beyond this webinar? now Thank you Dana, John, Laura, and all the panelists for your hard work and support! In HS we changed our grading to have formative assessment out of 90% and 10% attendance. I am wondering that on-line and distance learning mode opens up an opportunity for all of us to really test students' honesty in all fronts of life.. I don't wish to miss this opportunity to encourage students to have a kind of open-book/ open -web assessment and as long as i don't grade them or categorise them children have found exhibiting heights level of honesty For those interested in service learning we have a resource for students and teachers on our website: www.servelearn.co We are happy to support schools and students with self assessment. Thanks to all panelist for organizing this Yes, it's time for a change!!! highest* YES it is an opportunity to push forward... Gary Stager's "This is Our Moment" great read. Amen, Brent. This is time to push. Very inspiring! Thank you Dana, relationships between students, teachers, parents, and peers- so supportive!! I look forward to this so much! We could join and write a manifesto? And have schools sign it

From Andrew Torris to All panelists and attendees: (08:43 AM)

- Brent... you had a trial assessment??!!!

From Judy Imamudeen to All panelists and attendees: (08:43 AM)

- I agree—this is a great opportunity to be more self-directed as learners!

From Adegboyega Dominic Atolagbe to All panelists: (08:43 AM)

- Thanks to all panelists for organizing this, Good work!

From patuta singh to All panelists: (08:43 AM)

- Thanks for the resources.....new learning is happening for us as teachers also

From Zoey Pickel to All panelists and attendees: (08:43 AM)

- Kahoot is a super fun app/ website that can be used as a weekly formative check-in of knowledge learned, it can be done remotely and you can set a time for students to finish it by!

From alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:43 AM)

- True about super tech tools and showing off. Less is more! Meaningful teaching and prioritize standards less content

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:44 AM)

- Let's all try to give ourselves a bit of a break and assume we are all doing the best that we can. Let's move our teachers forward in sensible ways. Many are also parents who are managing online learning with their own children.

From Antoine Delaitre to All panelists: (08:46 AM)

- Just curious how many participants are in the webinar now

From Ali Power to All panelists and attendees: (08:46 AM)

- I agree about Seesaw.

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:46 AM)

- Seesaw was a game changer for us in grades K-2.

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:46 AM)

- Thank you For acknowledging that EC/EY assessment is hard!

From David Lovelin to All panelists and attendees: (08:46 AM)

- Every two weeks our leadership team hosts and open Zoom meeting to answer questions and support parents as needed

From Emma Ahmed to All panelists: (08:47 AM)

- We agree about Seesaw too.

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:47 AM)

- And yes giving parents support and tools to understand how young children learn so true!

From Emma Ahmed to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- We agree about Seesaw as a great tool.

From Jodi Lake to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- We have a weekly Town Hall and then breakout rooms for the different divisions.

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:47 AM)

- Thank you

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- Listen to the child... brings Donald Graves work on young children and the writing process to mind.

From Marilyn Lane to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- Seesaw has made a huge difference

From Tim Bray to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- Our elementary teachers host Meet or Zoom recess everyday for students to interact with each other for 20 minutes. The teacher is simply there to observe and provide guidance. The kids love it.

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- And Google Classroom in grades 3-5.

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:47 AM)

- Seesaw 🙌🙏❤️

From Jennie Jermyn to All panelists and attendees: (08:47 AM)

- Seesaw is great. But what happens if they don't talk or do tasks. Great that IBO is sending out info for parents.

From Erin Foxmann to All panelists and attendees: (08:48 AM)

- Thank you for commenting that we are likely not able to get through the previously planned curriculum. I ask my teams, "What is essential? Let's focus on that?" Also, "What can we do now that we couldn't before?"

From Marilyn Lane to All panelists and attendees: (08:48 AM)

- We use Seesaw through grade 5 and have found it very beneficial

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:48 AM)

- If you are struggling with a single sign on for Seesaw, reach out. We believe we have solved that problem.

From Michelle Cooper to All panelists and attendees: (08:48 AM)

- Seesaw is great for personalized feedback, reliant on their involvement yes...

From Alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:48 AM)

From Nathan Perry to All panelists and attendees: (08:48 AM)

- Power standards is something new to me...

From Tara Barton to All panelists: (08:48 AM)

- Student led conferences are a great way for students to demonstrate their learning. Agreed Seesaw is a great tool for this portfolio.

From Marilyn Lane to All panelists and attendees: (08:48 AM)

- Seesaw allows you to link learning with standards and assessment also

From Arup to All panelists: (08:49 AM)

- Jodi Lake_ could you please drop a line about town hall discussions.

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:49 AM)

From jennie jermyn to All panelists and attendees: (08:49 AM)

- parents prompt on seesaw..you can hear them.

From Philip Parham to All panelists: (08:49 AM)

- We have student led conferences next week, any thoughts on how that might go?

From Kirsten Durward to All panelists: (08:49 AM)

- This is an example of how you assess can give feedback in real time using a short writing prompt on padlet. We give this feedback as the children write. We do this by posting the link on a live chat like this one and also talking to them as they do it <https://docs.google.com/presentation/d/10H78h2yr9Q7jHDzNB9lSiytSO-dnz-pgs9MBGVrSSjc/edit?usp=sharing>

From David Trajtenberg to All panelists and attendees: (08:49 AM)

- What suggestions do you have for removing the very same barriers that have made this work challenging to implement when we were in school?

From Layne Hudes to All panelists and attendees: (08:49 AM)

- @leeannspillane The link requires permission to open.

From Lin Robbins-Doyle to All panelists: (08:50 AM)

From Rommel Pelayo to All panelists: (08:51 AM)

- Hi Layne, we need permission to access your document

From Tara Barton to All panelists: (08:51 AM)

- Agreed Kirsten. Learning continuum is key

From Kasia Travis to All panelists and attendees: (08:51 AM)

- Totally agree, Kristen!

From Andrew Torris to All panelists: (08:51 AM)

- that's a leadership problem... not a problem with standards

From Teresa Belisle to All panelists and attendees: (08:51 AM)

- I agree, @Kirsten. Are we interested in comparing or learning? The next step for learning . . . vive Vygotsky!

From David Gocentas to All panelists: (08:51 AM)

- Yes, Kirsten I agree.

From Fanny Passeport to All panelists: (08:51 AM)

- Power standards are based on readiness so I think you had a bad experience Kristen.

From Angela Murphy to All panelists and attendees: (08:51 AM)

- Good point Kristen.

From Tim Bray to All panelists and attendees: (08:51 AM)

- Yes, Kirsten!

From Zenan Sandouka to All panelists and attendees: (08:51 AM)

- True

From alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:51 AM)

- Exactly my thoughts!

From Siham Yacoub to All panelists and attendees: (08:52 AM)

- totally agree

From MUBIRU MIKE to All panelists: (08:52 AM)

- Yes

From Ali Power to All panelists and attendees: (08:52 AM)

- Yes Kirsten!

From Arup to All panelists: (08:52 AM)

- Thanks Nathan Perry.... If you may also suggest some leadership online course to address virtual learning issues it would be useful for many to keep abreast with the digital platform and devices available

From jennie jermyn to All panelists and attendees: (08:52 AM)

- where do we get IBO parent info find their site difficult to navigate

From Mónica Callenbach to All panelists and attendees: (08:52 AM)

- SeeSaw has been great with K students, audio and video activities and portfolio. easy to use and engaging.

From Andrew Torris to All panelists and attendees: (08:52 AM)

- standards are targets... teachers need to be given freedom to look at student growth

From Fanny Passeport to All panelists: (08:52 AM)

- I think we should not confused BENCHMARK and STANDARDS

From alejandra Cruz-Milano to All panelists: (08:52 AM)

- Exactly my thoughts. Standards need to be prioritize and then see where your students are so you can teach for and to them even if they are lower or higher standards and levels!

From Egbal Mohamed to All panelists and attendees: (08:52 AM)

- sorry I have to leave.... great discussion... thanks!

From Elizabeth Ntan to All panelists and attendees: (08:53 AM)

- absolutely

From Jasmine Dolani to All panelists and attendees: (08:53 AM)

- Thanks Lee for sharing the google slides :)

From Lee Ann Spillane to All panelists and attendees: (08:53 AM)

- ZPD ! Differentiate, individualize and push toward personalization by giving learners agency. As Allington said, Kirsten, 100 years of research taught us one thing: kids are different.

From Judy Imamudeen to All panelists and attendees: (08:53 AM)

- Assessment and differentiation....can we discuss that

From Fanny Passeport to All panelists: (08:53 AM)

- I think we all agree but it needs to be clear within our school.

From Lin Robbins-Doyle to All panelists and attendees: (08:53 AM)

From Angela Murphy to All panelists and attendees: (08:54 AM)

- You need to know the learning needs of the children, most teachers differentiate accordingly.

From Mónica Callenbach to All panelists and attendees: (08:54 AM)

- Kristen, spot on! Know the whole child and guide them to where they need to go as an individual.

From Nathan Perry to All panelists and attendees: (08:54 AM)

- If we profile 150 students, its gonna take forever. How can we streamline that?

From Kerry Legg to All panelists and attendees: (08:56 AM)

- We have individual profiles of children using a spreadsheet which contains our objectives ( in a continuum). We highlight the individual objectives met when we do our formative and class based assessments. We can then clearly see which objectives students have not been able to meet as a class and as an individual and move the learning on from there
